Middough Inc. Opens Three New Office Locations

Growth in client base, demand for industry solutions and an increasing project list generates expansion

CLEVELAND, Ohio (Sept. 14, 2010) — Middough Inc., a top ranking U.S. architectural, engineering and management services company, announces that it has opened new offices this year in Houston and Northwest Indiana, as well as relocated its Atlanta office to respond to the growing demand for the company's services throughout the U.S. This announcement was made by President and CEO, Ronald R. Ledin, PE.

The new offices expand Middough's ability to offer services to its fast growing base of clients and prospects nationwide, as well as continuing its efforts to better serve the industry and responding to an increasing project list. With the additional offices, the company has expanded its staff and has retained the best resources and top talent to support the company's businesses, industries and technology operations, giving them an incredible breadth of both project and client experience.

"Our clients are expanding current facilities and developing new projects across the U.S.," Ledin says. "To support their efforts, Middough expanded its locations to deliver superior performance, quality and support to our clients and growing prospect base in these new regions."

With the opening of these new offices, Middough's broad network of support has grown to include 13 offices with more than 800 employees. Their national presence will allow the company to assist clients with their growth opportunities nationwide providing full-service to the Architecture, Industrial, Life Science and Process businesses.
